If Successful, Building Will Start in Fall

Seeking to raise the last $25,000 needed to give the "go" signal on construction of the New Desert Museum here this fall, volunteer workers in the Business Division

The workers, recruited from among service club members, reported for a short rally at a breakfast session in the Biltmore Hotel. A maximum of three more breakfast gatherings will be held this week. The business men agree to give three hours of their time to the Museum's building drive, repotring for the breakfast meeting and then going directly on their calls which have been previously allocated in a specific area of the Village-

Deputies Search For Attackers Of Woman Here

Sheriff's deputies today continued their search for two men who reportedly criminally atacked a Palm Springs cocktail waitress in the desert east of the city early Saturday night.

The 28-year-old woman told Banning deputies that the men offered hera ride to Palm Springs when her car bogged down in the sand on Highway 111, north of the city, at about 7:15 p.m. Claiming they would take her to the nearest tow service, the men drove her through town and into the desert. Threatening her life, the men attacked the woman and drove her back through the city, heading towards Highway 99.

On a pretext that she was going to purchase beer, the woman managed to get out of the car at a Garnet store where she called her husband and then stalled fort ime Her attackers departed hastily when she warned them of he husband's impending arrival, adding that "if you value your lives, you'd better leave."

INVESTIGATION SHOULD BRING LONG NEEDED REFORMS

It was inevitable that the unethical use of trust funds by union labor leaders would some day be brought out into the open. Accumilation of these huge funds without an adequate accounting to the rank and file of labor tempted those in charge to the misuse of the money. It is surprising that these leaders got away with it as long as they did. Following the boom of the Coolidge-Mellon era about a generation ago some of the Big Business leaders found themselves in a similar predicament that faces union labor leaders today. It will be recalled that a comparatively small group of business tycoons were discredited in these eras because of unethical and illegal practices. Some of them went to jail, some lost their fortunes and others who couldn't face the music took their own lives. Even though the number of guilty ones was small Big Business suffered a severe loss in prestige with many Americans. Now the public-including most union committee of the misappropriation of union trust funds by those in charge. Other evidences of racketeering that has been going on at the top is just as distressing. As a result, labor organizations in general have been brought under suspicion.

The end is not yet of course, but enough has been brought out to show the need of reforms in the handling of union affairs and funds. There seems little doubt that laws will be enacted for protection of union trust funds derived from weifare and pension contributions by union members.

It seems quite possible also that a few of the union bosses will face prosecution in the criminal courts.

Unions Will Benefit

In the long run unionism will be made even stronger perhaps as a result of the housecleaning that is bound to come. This will be particularly true if other leaders of organized labor will help to bring about the needed reforms, which is really a big opportunity for the rank and file of labor to gain the members - have been shocked at the rights in their own organization which revelations by the Senate investigating they have long been denied.

The British in Kenya, the Dutch in Indonesia, the Belgians in the Congo, the Germans in their imperial days in West Africa, the Russians recently in Hungary, and now the fading French here in North Africa.

More than that, this book has etarted discussion, which I've come upon, concerning the validity of the force philosophy. If a subject nation or person only understands force, that is because no other lesson has been consistently laid before him. soon it must be total force. Anything less than total force is not understood.

DR. BENJAMIN GOLDBERG Helping the Minds of the Aged

In Brooklyn, New York, the Menorah Home and Hospital For the Aged and Infirm recently opened what is termed by the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene the only psychiatric clinic of its kind in the nation devoted exclusively to the

A geriatrics expert, a physician who treats elderly people, is in charge of the clinic and it happens that Dr. Reder is also a neuropsychiatrist.

HIS INTEREST therefore is centered in the peculiar mental reactions which develop as age comes on. There are 120 patients of five physicians and consult ants. Patients in the new Geria trics Guidance Clinic, as it is called, are ambulatory and apparently noraml participants in the activities of the center

A psychiatric social worker develops a complete case history the individual patient from personal and family interviews. The staff psychologist then pro-ceeds to test the mental reactions of the patient utilizing I.Q. and a perception test.

TREATMENT is aimed at helping the aged person make a con-structive adjustment to old age. Psychoanalysis is of course of the question. Instead there is an application of the active psycholbiologic principles of living The latter deals with the mental changes which occur incidental to the alterations in the glands of internal secretion as well as the function of the different body or-

There seems to be a complete parallel between the geriatric and the pediatric manifestations. It has often been said that with old age there comes a second childhood. That does not mean that the aged are to be treated as children. Yet there develops in the aged, a tendency in many to withdraw from social contact, while as in childhood others are over aggressive trouble makers.

THE BASIC WORK in the center revolves about the question "Are you content to grow old?" kled is the feeling of neglect and futility, the idea that the next step in life leads only to the grave. The objective is to develop good morale and to help the patient make an adjustment that allows him to enjoy old age.
The rooms in this hospital are right, airy, open to sunshine and they are close to the corridors which are slightly noisy and well traveled. This piques their curiosity and maintains some alertness where normally from a mental standpoint quiet and a rather darkened room as the atmos-phere has previously been sought.

THE PATIENT is made to feel and know that life moves about him. It is reassuring for him to hear the footsteps and murmurings of people passing outside his door. It creates the important feeling that he is not alone, and this is so important!

Whatever his introspective problems we want him to have a sense of activity within his grasp. #### Droodles By POCER PRICE

"BUCK-SHOT" I'm sentimental about the Buck n this Droodle. It's the first Dol lar my no-good Brother, Duke, ever made. It's full of holes because he had too much Acid in the Ink but later he perfected the for-mula and turned out a product far superior to the Government's. Matter of fact, at the 1953 Sissonville County Fair, Duke's money won first prize in the Arts and Crafts Exhibit. Gave him so much confidence he set up a little Print Shop in back of the Barn and he was doing fine until a couple of nosey Treasury Men came snooping around. They arrested Duke for being a Counterfeiter and al-though Duke insisted it was just a Hobby the T-men refused to believe him. Can't say that I blame them. The 50,000 Dollars Duke THERE had cached under the Hen House wasnt exactly chicken feed.

TODAY'S SPORTS PARADE

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

NEW YORK (P) - Barney Ross still was fighting today "for the kids who think I'm a hero."

He was always a battler, this round-faced little man from the Chicago ghetto. He proved it often by conquering the poverty which was his birthright, boxing his way to two world championships, earning the Silver Star as a Marine sergeant in the Pacific and then, in the most bitter fight of his life, conquering the dope habit.

SUNRISE SERVICES in Palm Springs Sunday drew from 400 to 500 persons who stood below the cross located on the San Jacinto foothills on the grass of the O'Donnell Golf Course to hear Easter morning services (picture left). Troumpets sound-ed the breaking of the dawn, and the voices of the Easter Choir could be heard throughout the Village. The Rev. Jack Morrow gave the invoca-

Bill Hay. The Easter prayer was said by Rev. James Arnold, and a solo was sung by Mrs. Frederick J. Watson. The Easter message was given by Dr. James Blackstone, Jr., followed by singing of hymns and the benediction. Boy Scout Troop 77 acted as ushers for the throng of persons who attended the services. The choir was directed by Elmer H. Young, Sr., and pianist Lois Lux furnished the music, (Desert Sun Photos,
